PUBLIC HEARINGS: Discussion and Consideration Of Amendments To Story County's Natural Resource Areas Map And Ordinance Update For Environment Protections - Andrea Wagner

Schoeneman and Wagner presented on the Natural Resource Area's map and ordinance update.

Guthrie asked how County staff chooses what trees are protected in which development scenarios.

Wagner responded for commercial development, the developer would hire a professional and Conservation may assist in residential permits.

Clark asked about the specifics for steep slopes.

Schoeneman responded with specifications for subdivisions with steep slopes and the need for lot layouts, and the slope's required buffer distance to the building site.

Younkin asked staff if they plan to regulate playgrounds, gardens, etc.

Wagner responded this ordinance is in relation to projects that require a permit.

Schoeneman confirmed this would have no effect on the examples Younkin listed.

Clark asked about the tree removal calculations listed in the ordinance update.

Schoeneman responded this would be for clear cutting identifiable areas of old growth forest.

Clark and Mens had clarifying questions on the protections of older growth trees.

Wagner and Schoeneman noted the ordinance update is prioritizing protection on older growth trees to protect wildlife habitats.

Younkin asked about the definition of development areas.

Wagner noted residential permits aren't subject to following protections for wetlands, prairie remnants and archaeological sites.

Jensen proceeded to open the public hearing.

Kim Christiansen at 2985 South Dakota Ave: provided comment on the proposed ordinance update and asked the Commission to slow down the process.

Guthrie noted that he had received an initial postcard notifying him of the changes and he felt sufficient time and opportunity had been given for public comment.

MOTION: Lee moved to approve option one: The Story County Planning and Zoning Commission recommends approval of the Text Amendment to the Story County Land Development Regulations to update the protections for critical natural resources, to the Story County Board of Supervisors, including adopting the amended natural resource areas layer of the future land use map.

Motion: Lee

Absent: Johnston

Motion passed.

PUBLIC HEARINGS: Discussion and Consideration Of Amendments To Story County's Hazardous Liquid Pipeline Ordinance - Amelia Schoeneman

Schoeneman presented the proposed amendments for the hazardous liquid pipeline ordinance.

Clark had questions in regards to the quarter mile setback and federal requirements.

Schoeneman noted that the ordinance relates to orderly land development and not safety like federal requirements.

Guthrie asked if other counties can have their own rules and regulations in regards to pipelines.

Schoeneman confirmed these rules and regulations could vary per county.

Jensen opened the meeting for public comment.

Tracie Gibler provided public comment opposing the hazardous pipeline ordinance.

Jensen closed public comment.

MOTION: Mens moved to defer this back to staff to allow further time for the Commission to learn about federal, state, and county regulations.
